Author Declaration Statement

The authors declare that:

- All material submitted is original and has not been published in some other form.
    - The abstract portion (only) may match the abstract submitted to the associated event.
    - Any artwork provided is original by the authors and not published in another form, unless express permission has been granted by the copyright owner. Artwork taken from journal articles, even ones with the same authors, must receive permission from the copyright owner, with an appropriate citation or note in the text. Authors must provide this written permission along with their submission.
- All scientific descriptions, data, findings, and conclusions are fair, true, and accurate, to the best of the authors' knowledge, and presented in good faith.

Grant of License Rights

The authors hereby grant a license, free of charge, to EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+), to publish the submission without restriction, in whole or in part, and in perpetuity. This license cannot be revoked.

The authors grant EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+) the right to edit the submission before publication, such as for typography, grammar, spelling, formatting, and graphical design, and composition, and publish individually or as a part of a larger volume. No royalties will be granted to the authors.

The authors retain copyright to their submitted material.

The authors agree that the submission will be released as an open-access work to the general public (without fees) under the creative commons CC-BY-SA licensing terms, which are available at https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/4.0/.

The authors agree to hold harmless EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+) for any damages associated with the publication of this work or granting of the license.

The authors agree that the granting of the license does not place an obligation, debt, or guarantee on EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+) to publish the submitted material.

The authors agree that EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+) may deposit the submission into a suitable scientific repository, and made available to the general public.

Publication in Journals and Scientific Literature

The authors understand and agree that most scientific journals and other scientific publications require their submissions to have not been published in other forms. This means that in most cases, the text in the submission cannot be reused in other submissions without quotation and attribution, even if the publication is by the same authors. In addition, in most cases, a substantive portion of the scientific material and technical content submitted to a journal must not have appeared in this publication already.

Permissions for Use of Artwork in Other Scientific Publications

The authors understand and agree that EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+) grants permission for publishers to use any original artwork contained in this submission in other scientific publications, so long as an appropriate citation is made and an appropriate descriptive text has been added. For example, if a figure from the submission is used in another work, that other work shall include text similar to the following in the figure caption, as appropriate: “Reproduced from [1] with permission from EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+)”, or “Adapted from [1] with permission from EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+)”, where [1] is a citation of the originating work published by EUROSIS-ETI (acting on behalf of KU Leuven/BioTeC+).
